GM's Note

Well if nothing else, I will be remembered as the GM who lost runners on a weekly basis Thursday was a wet miserable day but the rain held off for the evening. Inclement weather and the thought of slipping and sliding down the hill obviously put some people off and there was a smaller turnout than usual. When the circle was called there were no guests present and Sperm Whale – the hare- described the run as medium with a bar and two checks. The pack set off at a leisurely pace, socializing seemed infinitely preferable to running. We entered the path that runs behind the houses and quickly started the uphill climb. The wet leaves under foot were very slippery. It was not that long before we reached the check and as the paper had to be up, the runners opted for division of labour – some went left, some went right and others straight on. It was about ten minutes before we stumbled across the paper but we seemed to reach it ahead of the main pack and we didn't really see them again. It was funny to see the white banner still in place from the moonlight run. The run continued and the on down was not too tough so most of it could be jogged which made it particularly pleasant. As we were opposite Gangrene's House half the runners adjourned there which is where Sperm Whale was cooking. The rest of us waited for the return of the runners. Eventually it was down to three still out – Night Runner, Molly and Annalies and when the wait lengthened Sperm Whale brought the food across and all was quiet as we enjoyed his superb meal. Speedhound was iced because it was her birthday last Tuesday. The three missing runners did return just before a posse was about to go out. Thanks Sperm Whale for a great run and evening.

Please bring a torch with you, if you intend to do the run. There are cheap, small, light Without a torch, coming back in the dark makes the tree roots, rocks and foot vines a nightmare. LED torches available that you can clip to your water container or even your T-shirt

WOMEN WHO KNOW THEIR PLACE (AND THEIR HUSBAND'S)

Barbara Walters, of Television's 20/20, did a story on gender roles in Kabul , Afghanistan several years before the Afghan conflict.

She noted that women customarily walked five paces behind their husbands.

She recently returned to Kabul and observed that women still walk behind their husbands.

From Ms. Walters' vantage point, despite the overthrow of the oppressive Taliban regime, the women walk even further back behind their husbands, and seem appear happy to maintain the old custom.

Ms . Walters approached one of the Afghani women and asked, 'Why do you continue with an old custom that you once tried so desperately to change?'

The woman looked Ms. Walters straight in the eyes, and without hesitation said, 'Land Mines.'

The moral of the story is (no matter what language you speak and where you go):
BEHIND EVERY MAN, THERE'S A SMART WOMAN.
