Notes from the GM

Arriving at the run-site it struck me that only the die-hards and regulars were present. As for guests only Paula and Amoe were the only ones brave enough to come back for more from last week!

With the usual announcements out of the way the pack headed for the bush but Paula and I decided to just take a walk. Slowly climbing up the path I realize how much I have been missing the actual runs (because of my fall) and sitting at the run-site was not much fun! Mini Sausage had arrived late and easily passed us, closely followed by Longhair. Paula only wanted to go so far and so we turned around and retraced our steps back to the run-site just as some BRATS members appeared.

Goodyear was just coming out of the gated construction site when someone "closed" the make-shift gates. It looks as though it won't be long before we cannot use this site anymore as the passage through the housing is now fenced off and more construction is following! Sai Seng suddenly turned up to deliver some delicious herb rice and the flavour was superb followed by congee made by the Hare himself. Thank you both for the food and especially to Toddy for hosting the evening and giving free beer to the assembled members.

Announcements.

It has been decided that MEMBERS attending outstation runs who register through the GM, On Sec or On Cash and are representing the Club will receive a subsidy of RM20 towards the cost of attending.

PH3 has invited the Harriets to next Monday's run at TAR College. No guest fee for ladies.

The Circle

The GM is quite sharp eyed these days and quickly spotted guest Amoe back for another run. Last week he was dressed to the nines but this week had gone out and bought all the proper gear for hashing...including new shoes! Duly wetted of course.

Our other guest Paula also returned for another run. Last week was her first ever Penang run and she did very well in the jungle but she was not sure about coming again. However after talking to the GM she decided to come along as she loves the social interaction of our group. So she and the GM (whose still suffering from her fall) did a gentle enough walk along the track but turned back at the start of the jungle. It's good to see you Paula. Don't give up and come along even if it's just for our good company!!

It was a night of recognition and presentation:

First Tiny was called to the ice to receive her goblet for completing 200 runs.

Then Goodyear usurped her with getting his for 300 runs.

But the daddy of them all TAKE CARE has achieved 400 runs.

Well done to each and everyone of you.

The final icing was for the Hare of the Day, Toddy Tan. He had laid a good run with enough ups and downs to make a good sweat, had prepared delicious porridge and a scrummy herb rice dish with a wickedly hot sambal to go with it. Not only that he bought beers for everyone and brought along some Toddy in recognition of his name. What a nice guy!! Thanks Toddy.

Venue: Ivory Plaza

A long drive to Ivory Towers for me, but at least it made a change from Tanjung Bunga! The start of the run was a bit depressing as we passed a vast desolate construction site with a naked almost vertical cliff in the background – where previously had been green forest. However we were soon in the jungle and back to nature. The trail soon started to ascend and I slipped back to my usual last place, trying to keep up with Eddie, Edna and Beauty Queen in front of me. Actually I wasn't quite last as Silent Man as usual was silently sweeping behind!

Up and up we went and I was beginning to hope that Eddie would lead us onto a short cut, but he must have been feeling unusually strong, because he never faltered from the true path! I kept on thinking that we were reaching the top, but when we got there, another upward slope appeared! The only benefit as we ascended was a pleasant breeze which helped to offset the pain of our tiring bodies. Finally we reached the top, which was very pleasant indeed. Open spaces with orchard trees and fine views of Penang and the sea in the background. A nice place to build a house I thought, provided there was some magic transport system to get you up there!

Then there was a lovely horizontal walk along the top of the hills, a great relief after the slog up the hill and with further excellent views of city, sea and islands. Then the path became concrete and an easy descent, which made a change from hanging on to trees to prevent sliding down a muddy path. However I thought it would have been a very different story if it had rained, which would have turned the path into a slippery nightmare. Finally out into the bare construction site again and for once in the light and without shortcutting!

Funnies

Some (almost) one-liners

A woman has twins, and gives them up for adoption. One goes to a family in Egypt and is named Amal. The other goes to Spain and is named Juan. Years later, Juan sends a picture of himself to his mum. Upon receiving it, she tells her husband that she wished she also had a picture of Amal. Her husband said: "But they are twins. If you've seen Juan, you've seen Amal."

I saw this bloke chatting up a cheetah. I thought: "He's trying to pull a fast one."

My mother-in-law fell down a wishing well, I was amazed. I never knew they worked.

Went to the doctors and said: "Have you got anything for wind?" He gave me a kite.

A man walks into a bar with a roll of Tarmac under his arm and says: "Pint please, and one for the road."

I'm on a whisky diet. I've lost three days already.

"Doc, I can't stop singing The Green, Green Grass Of Home." He said: "That sounds like Tom Jones syndrome." "Is it common?" I asked. "It's not unusual," he replied.

Two aerials meet on a roof, fall in love and get married. The reception was brilliant.

Police arrested two kids yesterday, one was drinking battery acid, the other was eating fireworks. They charged one - and let the other one off.

AIRBAGS

Two are always better than one

An English, an American and an Irish man were in a bar and as they discuss their plans for the next day, they happen to notice a massive, mountain of a man, with no nose.

The barman notices them staring and says, "That's Tiny guys. He's reeeeeaaaalll sensitive about the whole missing nose business."

True to form, the Englishman cannot resist one last glance at this peculiar deformity. Tiny sees this and rumbles across the bar with a ROAR, which makes the rafters shed dust. Tiny grabs the Englishman by the throat and slams against the wall.

"WHAT'RE YOU LOOKING AT MATE?!" He yells.

The Englishman (being very good under pressure) replies with, "Oh nothing old chap, but I cannot help but admire your teeth. You have a fine set of teeth, take care of them or they shall rot like mine," he opens his mouth and reveals a set of false teeth.

Tiny is a bit surprised by this, but in true politeness, he puts the Englishman down, brushes him off and buys him a drink.

Ten minutes later, the American cannot help but look one last time. Tiny rumbles across the bar again, repeating the choke slam against the wall and yells,

"THE HELL DO YOU WANT BUDDY?!"

So the American (also being on the ball tonight) swiftly says, "I can't help but admire those darn ears. Those are some mighty fine ears you got there Tiny, you best look after them or you are going to need hearing aids like mine," So of course the American taps his hearing aids.

Tiny, being a true gentlemen, sets him back down, brushes him off and buys him a drink.

20 minutes later, the Irishman glances in Tiny's direction.

Tiny races across the bar, and pins him against the wall by his throat, yelling;

"AND JUST WHAT DO YOU THINK YOU'RE LOOKING AT?!"

So the Irishman, thinking quickly replies;

"Well, I cannot help but noticin' your eyes. You have a fine pair of eyes lad, and you best take good care of them, or you will need glasses like me and that wouldn't work because you got no nose to rest them on."
