GM'S NOTE:

Thinking that the roads would be busy after 5pm Mike and I decided to start early from home for the run at Original 5 in Batu Ferringhi. When we arrived the run setters were only just out and cooling themselves and Sai Seng advised me to make sure the run started on time. So just before 6pm we had the pre-circle and welcomed our only paying guest Richard from the UK, who was brought along by Kim Looi. Chatting with him previously he was looking forward to the run but we did warn him that his shoes (smooth soles) might give him a few problems but he decided to "have a go."

The trail started on the dirt road to Chin Farm and although we all walked by the turn we soon realised we were wrong and turned back to find the trail once more. In it went by the road barrier and crisscrossed loads of rubbish buried amongst the construction debris which was now becoming overgrown. The first check was soon found by the FRBs and on we went. Climbing the first hill, skirting and then down and down almost back to the bottom again before once again skirting some more and then hitting another (and as it turned out a long long) on up.

Part way up, my sole came adrift of my shoe and was barely hanging in there. It served me right as last week I was laughing at Cheng who had the same problem!! I was debating whether to turn around and go back and possibly take guest Richard with me, as he and Silentman had caught us up by then and Richard was struggling a bit but Mike solved the issue by being able to tie it in place using some spare shoe laces from his backpack. Taking a quick breather Richard was lamenting the fact he should have worn long pants and should have bought over the factory making mosquito repellent, as he was being feasted upon by the little buggers every time he paused for breath.

On we went however, up and up, going left, then right and then left but always UP!! Richard and Silentman fell behind once more as Richard struggled up the hill as did I but Mike kept coaxing me on until finally we hit the top just as Iceman caught us up and soon disappeared. What do these superfast people eat or do that I should know about??? It takes me ages to get to the top and they do it effortlessly in no time at all!!

Thinking the worse was over and hitting the on down trail we tried to pick up the pace a little as it was getting dark but we soon discovered it was a long and difficult On Down, with soft ground where I needed to prod with my stick to find the bottom, steep slopes with few hand holds and a big gaping hole with a narrow ledge (I heard later that Iceman fell into it as the edge collapsed and it reached up to his chest. Fortunately he wasn't hurt). I hoped we wouldn't be going to wade through any streams as the last time I ran here but we did have to cross a small one. By now the darkness had fully descended and with our torches playing up it was difficult to see the paper sometimes. It seemed to take forever to reach the bottom but finally we made it out onto the track just by the large water-tank and readied ourselves for the long walk back from there. It was dark the last time I was here too but that time I was alone. Fortunately Mike was with me all the way this time around.

The party was in full swing as we reached the run-site and an anxious Kim Looi was enquiring about her guest but with Silentman to help him he soon returned not that long after, a tired but jubilant hasher! Thanks once again Silentman for your sterling work and patience as sweeper.

It was a tough run but I must admit even though it took me over 2 hours I really enjoyed it and think it is the best run we have had this year to date. So thanks to the run setters all.

Finally I must say a very big thank you to Beauty Queen for a fabulous evening and lots of free beer.

CIRCLE

1. Welcome to Richard who was looking forward to the jungle and his first hash. He didn't change his mind after either!! Well done on completing such a tough run.
2. Next to be recognized were the invited guests of Beauty Queen who came along to help her celebrate. Welcome all.
3. A very surprised Dominic was called out next and presented with a cake from Helmut and Renata. It was his birthday the very next day. Happy Birthday Dominic. I'm sure you'll remember all the kisses!!
4. It was also Beauty Queen's birthday the following day too and so she also was presented with a cake along with a present from Take Care of a shower of iced water. Happy birthday to you BQ. Hope it was memorable for you too.
5. The GM might be slow going up the hills but she is lightening fast when she spots someone in the circle. This time her eye fell on an old Harriet member Richard Teoh who she tried to persuade to come back.
6. Wan Lyn and Hair Do were caught out by the GM when asked about the run. "Great run" they both said. "Bullshit" was the reply "how do you know when you didn't do it?"
7. However it was a great tough run and the main contractors were duly praised for their efforts.
8. Finally the birthday Bunny was given our grateful thanks for a great run, and great and plentiful food.

Then the evening really took off!!!

OTHER ANNOUNCEMENTS.
