GM's Note

Hash must be the only sport in the World where participants rush to the run-sites whether it is raining heavily or stinking hot. That is where we found ourselves on Thursday, fully knowing the rain would pee down any minute. Sai Seng and James@Silent Man had stepped in once again to the rescue of a hare, whose this time was away in KL, and set the run for them. Off we went in the rain with the assurance of torches and phones in our packs.

I struggled from the start and just going up the first bit (after the little bridge) was a major effort as the ground, soft from the rains and slippery from the feet of the FRBs in front, made it very difficult for me to get any foothold at all to get myself up. Eventually with help from Akz Hole I made the trail and we started after the others!

Further up we saw that the paper went off to the left and down. AH asked if I was up to doing the run and so on we went thinking it couldn't be that bad especially as it was a Thursday evening! How wrong we were!! I should have turned back after the 3rd fall I had!! My clothes were filthy from the sliding down but we continued on, skirting the hill until finally we hit the first ridge. Suaran had long since turned back but we met up with Philip and the three of us continued thinking the worst must be behind us!! How wrong we were AGAIN!!!

Recovering our collected breaths we recognised the ridge and AH said we had to go down and up the other side and just hoped we didn't have to climb the rocks!! Down we went alright, very fast and on our bums as we slid once more from top to bottom!! By this time I was thinking of many different and slow ways of getting even with Sai Seng and James!!!!!!

We dragged ourselves slowly, slowly up the hill, as the darkness was now thick, black and shrouded in mist. Slip-sliding one pace forward 2 back in places or in AH's case about a 30 metre slide back down the hill, fortunately hitting a tree with his feet to stop his descent. Up through the rocks picking our way and then horror of horrors we couldn't find the paper. Looking right and left all we could find was some old paper from other Chapters but none of ours!

The teeming rain added to our discomfort but we realised that we had no alternative but to go to the top and hit the ridge pathways to get home and so upwards we really struggled once more until finally we were on the top. Once again we found other Chapter papers and after a brief recce AH found the right trail and on down we went.

It was a long and slippery on down but at least we knew where we were going! We were very tired and very muddy when we finally exited the tracks and made it back to the run-site. It was 9pm by this time and a relieved Sai Seng welcomed us back as did the assembled pack with a chorus of "Why were they born so beautiful".

Looking back it was a good run which would have been great on a drier day but the weather had conspired this day to turn it into a very arduous mud crawl!!

I was so tired that I didn't eat immediately when I got back and we had the circle instead. After that I ate but I don't really remember what but it tasted good and I thank Datin Choo for providing a welcome repast on behalf of the missing Hare!

CIRCLE:

1. First on ice was Samy. The GM grilled him on why he didn't turn up the previous week or at least let us know his problem and we could have made other arrangements. A duly admonished Samy apologised and promised to do so if it ever happened again.
2. The GM then called Goodyear and Money Manfred to the ice. There were comments of racing, machoism, short cutting and so on, all vehemently denied by the two but the GM kept them sitting there perhaps as a punishment for them saying it only took them an hour when it took the GM 3 hours!!

3. Sai Seng was called out to receive grateful thanks for helping out once again (James too by the way but he was busy taking photos).
4. Sperm Whale then put Tiny on ice as it was her 70th birthday the previous Monday. A round of “Happy Birthday” ensued. How marvellous that Tiny still beats 99% of the pack on any run. Goes to show that age is but a number after all!! Happy Birthday Tiny!
5. It was Sai Seng’s day as he was once again called to the ice to take thanks on behalf of the Hare for a good (but muddy) run and good food.
6. The last icing of the evening was a belated one carried over from the previous week as Tiny was given her due thanks for her hosting on that day.

With that the circle was closed, food eaten, drinks imbibed and chat recommenced. All the while the rain peed down but didn’t dampen the spirit of the evening. Thanks one and all.

*'I never want to live in a vegetative state, dependent on some machine and fluids from a bottle.
If that ever happens, just pull the plug.'*
