BURST : AYER ITAM DAM

Welcome to my run, this way please. Bayee Pass pointed to his left, a slope with charred remains of a recent bush fire. As the FRB scrambled down in a jiffy, little did they notice the drama queen's screams of "Ayo! Ma Pong pi ang" as she skied down the slope.

The hare led us to a new territory with lush green bushes and brackens. Jig-zagging along the trail, then up we climbed the hill just cruising along the ridge, all the time avoiding the top, up and down in and out of the brackens, leg vines, and prickles heading towards some neglected rubber terraces and we prodded on with our sweaty bodies and tired feet. At one point I could see the short-cutted version of the run briefed by the hare but being hardcore hashers we persevered. A slight descent made us think that the end was nigh but no oh no another on-up looming ahead. At this time the light was fading and there were only 4 of us left in this middle of nowhere. This on-up was like stairway to the sky and light was failing and from a distant we could see mist and more mist floating and eventually engulfed us as we carried on. What a sight to behold!! As we reached the wide track, Toddy put on his cape and did a disappearing act leaving the 3 of us behind to fend for ourselves. At long last we reached the tar road and on our way back to base. By now it was almost 8pm but what the heck the name of the game is to complete the task. Bravo big thank you to Bayee Pass and contractors for providing us yet another evening of excitement.
