Note from Vithia

Dear Harriets,

Thank you very much for the generous cash contribution that you guys gave last week.

My wife and I are very grateful and we can't thank you enough.

I believe your contribution will be very helpful for my sister in law to undergo her kidney treatment.

Thank you again guys, god bless you all.

Yours Sincerely.

Vithi Atharan (smiling horse)

Burst

CLASSIC THURSDAY

The Committee sat in a huddle clocking the runners in. In attendance were the usual groupies: Axhole, Viking, Take-Care etc. Just a couple of guests, Horse and Toby Jug. General seemed genuinely surprised when introduced as the Hare, describing the run as short to medium but long in parts, he seemed uncertain about the paper-of-the-day and then convincingly waved us on in the general direction of the On-On.

Yours truly followed General On-Up but he soon pulled ahead despite the jet lag. Take Care and followers also moved quickly ahead. Speedhound passed, having been tarrying down below for some unknown reason. Thereafter there were just a few plaintiff calls of "Are you on?" "Where are you?" and a final desperate "Anybody there?" from lost souls far at the back . . . then silence. Half an hour into the run Michael Long Hair came up from behind, presumably suffering from the usual torchlessness so he could make direct contact with trees once it was dark. Second half I saw no hashers, left alone to solve the world's problems, until out of the gloaming came Eddie the Punk who evidently preferred the conventional On-In to the one laid by the Contractors.

Money came in late looking like he had done the run at least twice -- which is quite likely. Ronnie Tour appeared from the opposite direction with his usual gaggle of admirers who would have come in a lot earlier had they stayed on paper and not succumbed to his charms.

Nick kept up his tradition of arriving back no earlier than 8pm. Hope there was enough food left for Nick.

Good short run, good food followed by a class performance by the Hash Mistress, Uncle Bee.

BTW, the price of a burst has gone up, it is now two dosai !

Just beer on the ice for her "new Pom pom"
youthful hairstyle

Ronnie Tour as head of the SCB for leading his flock of hashers everywhere
except the actual trail

Shit in the Pit as dinner club member of the day

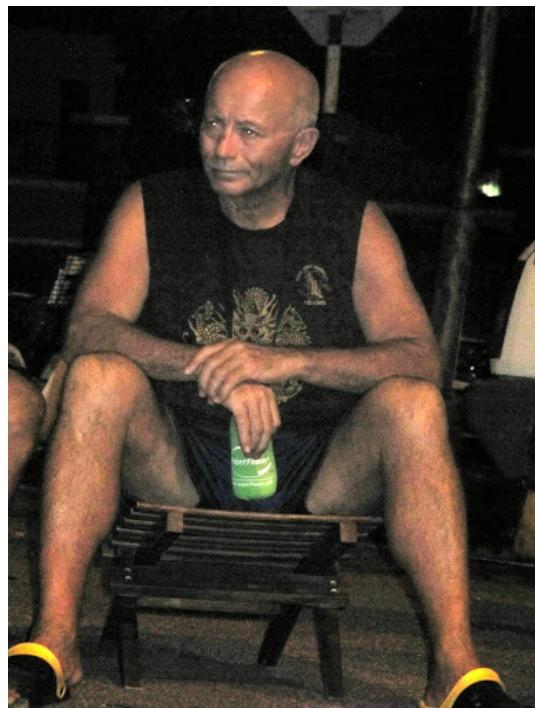

Tolby - for a short 10 min run when he actually completed it in 55 mins

Camel toe- for setting other chapter's run
instead of Harriets

Hare on the ice for good run, good food and 1
crate of beers

Special thanks to Manfred for the 1 crate of Beers too (His birthday was the day before)
