NEWSLETTER 2206

GM's Note:

The Bunny, Hot lips must have 6 sense to change the runsite at the 11th hour- knowing in advance that it's going to pour at 6pm....well it did!!!!

At least it has the shelter needed at charlie market. The bunny must have done her homework - inviting her guests to the run - all in 9 guests and 44 members!!!

Burst

GM asked me to do the burst a few days before the run and as I was busy cadging a cigarette I really was not in a position to refuse! I vaguely said I would need a reminder but on arrival at the site I was given just that. In a position of zero excuses I had better make some sort of effort.

Just before we set off for the run site it was pissing down with rain which did not add any bright side to the ensuing exercise. When we got to Charlie Market however, there were enough friendly, welcoming faces to dispel any thoughts that were negative. We stood and nattered for a bit.

GM called the circle and as usual there was some reluctance to be upstanding, but eventually hashers shuffled forward and then numerous guests were introduced. The run was described by a co-hare as short to medium and we were told to start on the usual way.

We all interpreted the usual way to mean up the highway so off we trudged. Everyone was very conscious that the earlier, heavy downpour would mean the trail was slippery and treacherous so conversations started up to try to disguise the lack of speed. This was very rapidly followed by a state of confusion. There was not a single piece of paper to indicate that we were on route.

A group of enterprising hashers veered off to the left and started calling on on but those of us with an itchy witsy bit of nouse yelled it was old paper and continued up the high way but to be fair we were feeling less confident than usual. This was the longest we had ever been with no paper, ( A note for future hares . it is brilliant not to litter the trails but give better info eg Go up the highway and the first paper will be at the turn off)

At last we got to the turn off, but instead of sighs of relief there were grunts of 'Oh my god!' The entry was steep and in general we went up two strides and then slipped back one. However, we tried to keep in mind that the run was not long and to push forward and get on with it. It was one of those runs that went up and round and on and up again. I was with Pussy cat and Take care and just after we had gone over the top of the hill, Goodyear appeared out of the wood work and we tried to slot in behind his pace which wasn't too fast.

Until this point the paper had been brilliant. We had had no trouble keeping on the correct trail, We arrived at a narrow valley and as we crossed it the paper simply stopped – no check, no bar. There were four of us so we scattered and made an effort to find the paper but no luck. We had seen the highway on our scouting for paper so it seemed sensible to go down and see if the trail crossed over to the other side – this having been done recently.

Here we met up with some of the independent hashers( Huge, Amy, Memsahib) discussing the fact that the mountain of rocks that had been by the side of the construction site had now been removed or distributed more evenly over the territory.

Once on the highway we saw paper but it was clearly the on in paper and it was far too early to return to base. We made the decision that we would try to follow the paper in reverse so that we could do the loop we had missed.

Following paper in reverse is much tougher but we had to go up the highway for some distance before we met the turn into the jungle. We then had to struggle up a long hill, winding round the contours here and there. All I could think of, is what a brilliant run down it would have been if we had found the trail, the correct way round.

Eventually we reached the top and began to jog the on down. We couldn't just sprint because there were lots of foot vines and thorns just waiting to do battle with our bodies. The closer we got to our earlier lost paper point, the harder it was to find the paper. At least we could see why we had failed.

At last we were back on the highway and could jog at a reasonable pace back to the beer wagon.

My group had a brilliant work out so we had no genuine complaints but being hashers we felt obliged to ice the run setters.

Circle

All the guests were acknowledged in the Circle- Nisha, Texas and Woobly Tits, Dr.Bombay, General Soon, Itchy Bai, Carston, Ms Chinatown and Nick lie low

Gman next- for coming out 1st winthin 30 minutes and couldn't find paper!!!!

Black german next- Why Rm10 instead of Rm2.00 for guest fees.....That must be history!!!!

Charges from the floor-

Goodyear- Tiny and Take care for doing the reverse run

Lyna - Mark and Itchy Bai--Itchy was saying,,,F#@*^
Y...i know the way to Mark but eventually got LOST and had to do a reverse run instead.

Carston and Bunny next for a good fucked up run and delicious Mee Java by Datin. As for Carston, for coming all the way from Germany for his handbag's run.....

Asking for ice water to cool her down

Not enough paper..

Danok Run

A Fantastic turnout of over 70 hashers from various hapters ie Batangs,PH3,THK. FTAC.Pi. SP full moon. MBS and IA Club who came and supported our Outstation run @ Danok, Thailand on 17th May 2014

The Run- mostly within Rubber Plantations or I would term it as" Chasing after the Mosquitoes Run" covered an area of over 7km. 1st runner was back within 1hr 20 min while the last runner clocked in just past 2 hrs.

What an enjoyable night we all had @ Baan Sukkho with a 6 piece live band,hot and spicy Thai cuisine and lots of Beers!!!!!! Everyone was either singing or dancing away till the wee hours in the mornings

Thank You to IA club for donating 2 crates of Tiger Beers....

A BIG BIG Thank YOU to Jukebox of Power Trax Network for sponsoring our Danok T-shirts!!!!!!

On..on... C u in Langkawi next !!!!!
