GM's Note

A word from the Hare for next week run at Bee Gallery – Please wear RED T-SHIRT for next week's run and it's going to be a fun night filled with lots of activities – “X'mas Run” busybody's style!!!!

The weather has not been too kind for the past few days as it rains on most evenings. At around 4.30pm, the skies darkens as if it was going to be a downpour again. There's no shelter at BatuGantong (the last run there was one and a half years ago) as I was telling myself except at one of the funeral parlour lot (if it's vacant). Luckily, everything turns out fine- cooling weather, good food and great fellowship night.

Deepest condolences to Endiran on the passing of his father-in-law in India.

Hash dues are due, Please pay to Rupiah or myself ASAP. Thanks

Merry X'mas and a Happy New Year to All.....

BURST for run on 18th December 2014

Arriving at the run site at Batu Gantung, I thought we must have come to the wrong location as very few cars were in evidence. However then we spotted a few familiar hash faces! What put the rest of you off? Are you concerned about trampling on the graves of your ancestors or worried that you might meet a few lost spirits?

At the appointed time GM called for a circle and then we were off – all eight of us including two septuagenarians (one of which was yours truly). As usual we followed the road at the bottom of the cemetery hill, passing the post boxes where you can send a letter to your departed ancestor. We then started up the usual stone steps, but they soon disappeared under a mass of weeds and grass, so we just followed the hash paper which zig-zagged around the graves until we entered the trees. All the trees seemed to have extensive roots designed to trip you and we passed very near the edge of a high sheer cliff – much too close for my liking as I don't like heights! During this period I was passed by Ice-man bringing the pack up to the grand total of nine!

Then happiness, we moved in to a lovely open area where there were few roots or machine guns to catch you and a fascinating landscape of giant boulders which seemed to have been dropped from above. Soon however I was overtaken by Sai Seng the official sweeper. Since I was now BEHIND the sweeper which is clearly illegal, I decided at this point to turn back. My fellow septuagenarian of course did the whole run as follows:

After this the real climb started and putting one foot in front of the other was made easier by reminding oneself that every step was one step closer to a tiger. Having hauled myself up a very steep bit I came face to face with Sai Seng who assured me that I was almost at the top. It was a bit more than the 100m Sai Seng said but at least he was right in that it wasn't so steep.

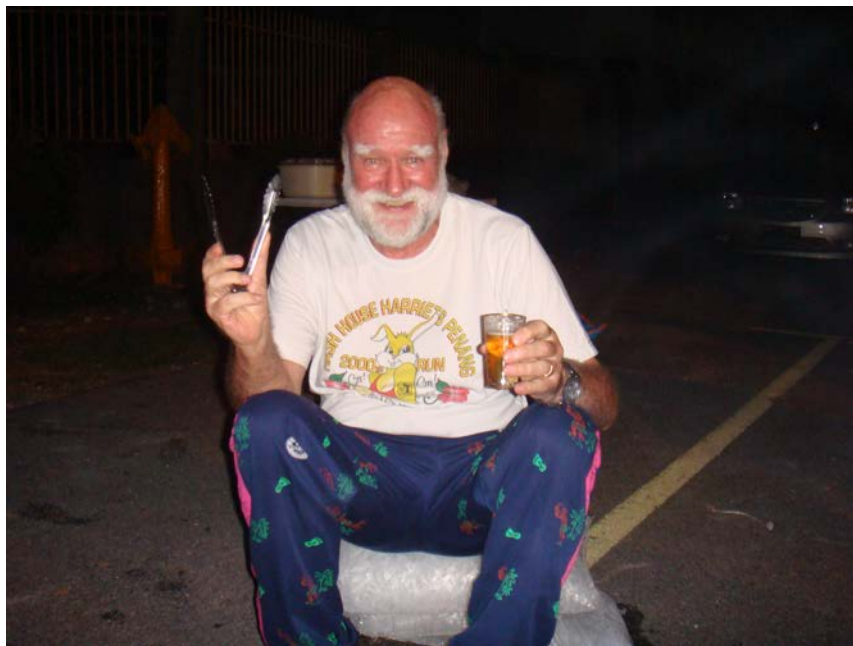

At last I was on the on-down and this was not the piece of cake I was hoping for. In parts the only way down was to slither and hope - in other places a jump was more appropriate. However the lure of the beer wagon is great and everyone got back safely and in good spirits
