GM's Notes

The afternoon threatened rain but the evening was surprisingly cool and balmy. So as not to disturb the neighbours in the apartments, we decided to remove ourselves to the juice stall on the Mosque side of the car park. This caused a few problems since the bunny had ordered the evening's menu from a stall on the other side and so a fair bit of walking to and fro occurred but it was nice not to be under cover for once, although some still stayed on "the other side".

The mood seemed quiet and subdued, whether this was due to tiredness because of the slippery run or just the mood of the evening I am not sure but as more hashers turned up it did get a little livelier. The run was short for the FRB's they said but the slower ones were quite happy as they were able to come out in the light for once. In all accounts though it was a good run! Eugene however found it too short and since he passed no one he decided to do a couple of rounds in the Botanical Gardens. Little did he realise or question the fact he passed no one, that he was on LAST week's run!!

We had a short circle where we held impromptu auditions for the next singer of songs. However we only had one try out and it was all agreed that the Imam in the Mosque failed the audition as:

1. He cannot sing a note in tune.
2. He didn't know the words!!
3. He doesn't like Tiger!!

Thanks to Jennifer for the run, good food and the free beers.

Next week we are at Charlie Market for Endiran's @ Handyman run. Please come and support.

Circle

1. Welcome the guests Arasha and Shahram from Iran.
2. Marks and Spencer was finally iced for his run two weeks ago. At the time he said his run was short/medium but didn't know which as the GM helped to set it and she is slow!! Not a wise thing to say about the GM however. It was agreed by all who did the run it was LONG!!! And the GM had her revenge!!
3. Jennifer has been around in Harriets for a few months yet she still didn't know who Silentman was. The GM did the introductions!!
