GM's Notes

Those of you who did the run on Thursday came back with the same burning question. "How did the 3 of us, namely, Sai Seng, Goodyear and I get up the rock ledge?" Some of you wisely turned elsewhere and did a different trail while others had help from those who had managed to climb up or were waiting for their turn.

As for me the boys had already scrambled up somehow and with fear in my heart of falling into a crevice, I held on to Goodyear's arm for dear life until my buns were safely sitting on the aforementioned ledge. It was tough. There was nothing to hang on to or any real footholds to give you a lift up. Arm strength seemed to be a pre-requisite to pull yourself up and over the edge. After getting up Sai Seng cut 2 long tree vines and placed them with the hope of helping the later hashers get up.

After setting the run it rained heavily. Money and Rupiah arrived early at the run site and decided to do the run instead of wasting time waiting around. On their return they had the same complaint about the rock ledge and how slippery the vines were.

On the run itself, Akz Hole tried to get up three times before being boosted from behind by Ian. Whereas Ian just pulled himself up (good arm strength I guess) and then helped the next up who helped the next and so on. The last one up was Silent Man who at that point had to say 'bye' to Beauty Queen who wouldn't go up. Thank goodness the rest of the run was fairly straightforward after that.

We had three guests on the evening. Spindle Tan (who deals with, what else but spindles) from Mother Hash, Valerie and Oliver from Singapore and who are friends of Ian and Rosalind.

The venue for the evening was Tembaga Waterfall and it was busy with people getting the place spruced up for Ponggal or Harvest festival (in the North of India it marks the end of winter whilst in the South the harvest) as well as making Kavadis for the upcoming Thaipusam.

We had our usual short circle. Unfortunately the Hare of the Day, Ganesh, was in KL on business but Goodyear stepped in as a lookalike. We thank the absentee hare for the delicious food and Beauty Queen for the free beer.

Circle

1. Welcome the guests, Spindle, Valerie and Oliver. Please come again.
2. The GM then put Money and Rupiah on ice for going in early.
3. Akz Hole was next with the question "how did you get up the ledge"? Well we know the answer to that.
4. AML was busy chattering away which is a definite no no when the GM is doing the circle. She wanted to know when Thaipusam was but she should have asked afterwards. ON ICE!!
5. We had a new caterer this week who is himself a hasher with the Batang Hash. Goodyear introduced him to all by putting him on the ice!! Delicious food.
6. The hare was called to be given thanks but as he was absent lookalike Goodyear received the thanks on his behalf. Good run (even the ledge), Good food, Good venue.
7. A late icing saw Beauty Queen park her behind on the ice. The 'charge'.... completing 600 runs!!! Great milestone and well done BQ. She was so over whelmed she bought a crate of beer for us to share!! Many thanks BQ. You'll get you pewter soon we promise!!
