Hash House Harriets Penang

Run: 2365

Date: 08 June 2017

Venue: Charlie Market

Bunny: Speed Hound

GM's Run Notes

There was only one way into the bush at Charlie Market and we had to walk along the road about 300 metres before turning right. Heading up past the houses we were joined by a pack of yappy and barking dogs but that's all they did. Once through the gate we hit the highway and after a short walk turned left into a climb and the bush.

As usual Sai Seng was leading but was a little concerned after a while when I was nowhere in sight, so he stopped and called out to give me his location. When I caught up we decided where we wanted to come out and planned the rest of the trail from there.

I do marvel at Sai Seng and his sense of direction as he navigated through the bush and bracken since I only had a vague idea where we were. I didn't quite like the freshly churned Wild Boar playground though!

At one point there was a tree I passed with lots of buzzing around it. Looking up I saw plenty of bees around but thankfully I didn't get stung and hoped those running in the evening wouldn't either.

On up we climbed until finally hitting the track on the ridge. With a grateful sigh I knew that it was all downhill from here and as we walked down the track I caught my breath before going down the usual trail to come out in the corner of the hash highway and back to the runsite.

We did have a surprise on the way back though as there was tape strung from tree to tree and a path had been literally ploughed through with no care about the environment!

In the evening we had a smallish crowd for the start but that grew as late comers arrived. Molly had brought along curry puffs and jelly which we all tucked into whilst waiting for the food to be served. There was, on occasions, a lovely breeze blowing and when in the right direction was heavenly but when it changed direction it brought the usual smells which were pretty ripe and made one want to wear a mask.

The mood seemed somewhat subdued and even the circle was relatively quiet. However, once the beers started to kick in the atmosphere lifted and the chatter started.

 Next Week we are at Bee Gallery for Wu Kong's run.

Circle

Welcome to our guests, Lorenza from Italy (who was really fast) and our friend Christina from Singapore. Unfortunately both had left before the Circle.

A charge by Goodyear saw Saylor and Snap Cop on the ice for following the wrong paper. However they did manage to find the way back!!

Right Hand Drive was then called to the ice by the GM along with his son Ryan who was introduced to the assembled crowd. He seemed quite pleased to be sitting there as a potential future member and so we decided to give him the hash name of Left Hand Drive just to make his evening complete.

The GM then put the Bunny and Sai Seng on ice. The Bunny was there for being wishy washy about setting her own run. She was supposed to help set but at the last moment she ducked it and left it to her contract labour. Sai Seng was there for being late to set the run. It was supposed to be 10.30 but they didn't start until 12.00. He did have a good excuse however as he was called to rescue a damsel in distress on one of the trails in the Botanical Gardens. She had apparently twisted her ankle and couldn't walk. Sai Seng literally carried her out on his back. A Knight In Shining armour indeed.

Harriet Humour

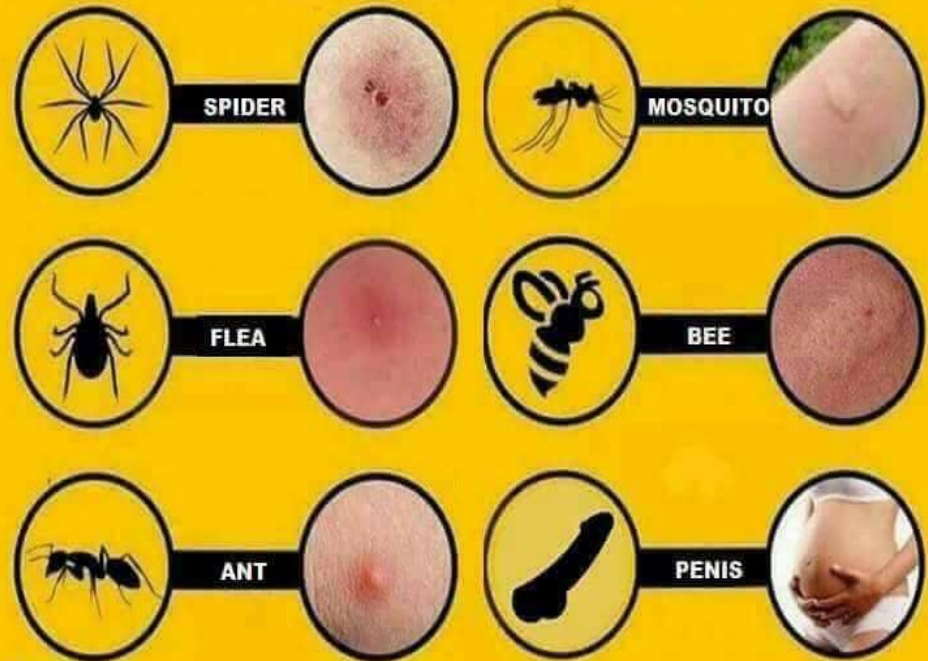

THE IRISH

Paddy and Mick are going home from a night out and realise that they don't have enough money for a taxi so they decide to go to the Bus depot and steal a bus. Mick breaks into the depot as Paddy stood guard. After a while Paddy decided to see what was keeping Mick so he looked through the gate where he saw Mick running from bus to bus looking worried "What the hell are you doing?" asked Paddy.

Mick replied, "I can't find a number 6 bus anywhere Paddy."

Holding his hands to his head in disbelief Paddy barked "You idiot Mick, steal a number 8 and we'll get off at the roundabout and walk the rest of the feckin way!"
