Hash House Harriets Penang

Run: 2400

Date: 08 February 2018

Venue: Bukit Tambun

Hare: Polish Piper

Burst by Woodpecker

A rare Harriet's run on the mainland and a run that was well worth the extra travelling time.

I got a lift to the site with Spermy and Viking and we arrived early. When we got there Sperm Whale announced that he was going to sit the run out in a "coffee shop", "tiger shop" more likely.

Viking and I set off to do the run, accompanied by Toddy, who also arrived early. It was a nice run through the grave yard, not hungry ghost so not too much happening there. On to the first, and major challenge of the run, the cliff. This was actually quite challenging indeed. What looked like a wall of rocks was actually soft and crumbly. Viking and I got almost to the top then struggled for some time with getting on to the top. Finally making it we found out that all the excitement was just a little too much for Toddy, who was no where to be seen, he is lucky that there was no circle or he would certainly have been on ice.

This place is wild boar heaven, there sites were everywhere and I could even smell them and I have almost no sense of smell.

Up to the top of the hill and another challenge navigating boulders. The view from the top was really magnificent.

Back down and somehow we ended up on the "up" paper, which, of course, took us back to the cliff again. Rather than climb down it we cut through the jungle to make it safely back home. A perfect run, not too long and not too short but just right.

Back to Polish Piper's place for a magnificent feast of his wonderful home made sausages, potatoes, wild boar curry followed up by cheese cake. This was really a magnificent spread of food.

Later in the night we were treated to a fireworks display and then to some "Polish Rectified Spirit". I was wondering what the Rectified part meant until, rather appropriately, Akz Hole pointed out that it was probably something to do with the rectum and the effect that the spirit would have on it if you dared to over indulge.

A fantastic night, great run, great food, great friends and a good laugh had by all.

 Next Week we are at Shamrock Beach Watertank (Kali's Cnr)

PEOPLE over 65 who drink up to three alcoholic drinks a day can look forward to a healthy retirement, a 30-year-study says.

The University of California findings show moderate to heavy drinkers are more likely to live to the age of 85 without dementia or other cognitive impairments than non-drinkers.

The study, which tracked more than 1000 middle-class white men and women in California, builds on the recent research linking alcohol intake to longevity. It was revealed yesterday that Queen Elizabeth II consumes four alcoholic beverages each day.
