Run: 2431

Date: 13 September 2018

Hare: Toddy Tan

Runsite: Bee Gallery

A big Sign floating across the car park greeted the Harriets today. Penang State Welcoming participants to the "Sukan Senior". It is nice that the Penang State Government appreciate us Harriets and Harriers enough to put a big welcome sign at our most regular run site.

The GM being off on a trip to Perth, the VGM Biker Sheila opened the proceedings. The Group was small this week, some others perhaps at the FTAC point to point run, or otherwise taking advantage of the September Public Holiday bonanza.

The Hare, Toddy Tan had informed the Harriets that he set the run alone, and therefore it was a short run. By pointing in the direction of the opposite car park, Toddy started the small group off on the run.

The entrance was slightly to the right of the usual entrance, as Imposter said, to provide variety. The first on up was slippery and steep, and I stayed ahead of Monkey King, so, had I slipped down, I would have something soft to cushion my fall.

Joining the Moon Gate trail to No5, we trudged up the steps, at least these weren't slippery. Mounds of bricks and bags of gravel stacked to the side of the trail showed the intent to fully pave the way to No5 in the near future. Luckily we were not expected to carry a few bricks as a toll for using the newly cemented steps. Monkey King sprinted ahead along here, and soon Imposter, found his bruised ribs prevented him from maintaining the lead.

Steps, steps, steps, steps, trail, more steps, more steps, and more steps. Then reached the flat bit leading to No5, but before reaching No5, the paper turned to the left and on down on a nice trail.

On down is easy, on the trail, thanks to Newton and his invention of Gravity. What did earlier people do, I wondered.

Because of the earlier rains there are few hikers on the trail today. Pity, normally there are lots of pretty hikers to do some checking!

Then the Hare discovered there are still more steps down this route, and still more steps and more steps.

A nice trail was eventually reached, and a jog down to the Youth Park ensued, one hiker advising that it was too slippery to run, but with good hash shoes it was perfect. Paper was scarce or completely absent along here, and the Hare subsequently blamed the monkeys for picking it up. These monkeys are very careful of their environment apparently.

Into Youth park, through the car park, and along the road for a bit of a road run back to the run site, where Botak Chin was already stripped down to his undies, and giving his body a good scrub in anticipation of a good evening ahead.

Viking and the guest were also out, and sipping beer.

Considering the run was set by a single setter, (no wonder Toddy was wearing his spectacles today, so he could see enough to clip paper), it was a good run for a rainy day, enough to get a sweat and a thirst, and an appetite. Shower to remove sweat, beer to remove thirst, and delicious buffet to sate the hungry belly.

Another day in Paradise.

Circle

1. Welcome to the guests: Monkey King, Juicy (Hare's guest) and Alvin (not pictured).
2. A charge from Iceman kept Juicy on ice and Huge was called to join her. The charge was Juicy who cooked all the food had placed the white rice in a white container with a white spoon which made it near impossible for some "whites" to see the spoon and Huge had to serve himself by hand in true Indian style.

3. Speed Hound put Beauty Queen and Silent Man on ice for both coming back from the run in daylight! Beauty Queen claimed no hanky panky this week because she had her period. Some questioned if menopause was more likely.

4. Another charge from Iceman had Imposter on the ice for beginning the run fast but shortly after complaining of sore ribs and aborting the run even faster. The choir sung him the “Bullshit” song.

5. Posh charged Silent Man for breaking his silence and constantly talking to Beauty Queen when Posh was trailing them on an earlier run. However Silent Man kept quiet and would not reveal the content of his chatty conversation.

6. Hare on ice Toddy Tan, who told us he set the run alone and in wet conditions. Luckily he wore his glasses and did not get lost. Many thanks to Toddy for an enjoyable run, delicious home cooked food and washed down by icy cold subsidized beer. The club wished Toddy Tan a very Happy Birthday and sung him a song.

Funnies

I wish I could go to the Maldives again.”

“Wow, you’ve been to the Maldives?”

“No, but I wished it before.”

“Mommy, I saw you jumping on daddy’s belly yesterday night.”

“Yes, we were trying to get rid of daddy’s big belly. I jump on him so all the air would come out.”

“Aha, I know why it isn’t working then – the woman from next door comes every afternoon when you go shopping and blows all the air back into him again.”

I just like to sleep naked. The air-hostess could have been a bit more understanding.

I saw a poster today, somebody was asking “Have you seen my cat?” So I called the number and said that I didn’t.

I like to help where I can.
