GM Note's

Run: 2488

Date: 17 October 2019

Hare: Fancy Pants

Runsite: Charlie's Market

No GM Note's this week, but 2! write ups instead.

Write up from HashA:

If the dead would decide to haunt down people for joyfully jumping up and down on their tombs while looking for gold, I guess, No Choice, Justbeer, Fancy Pants and my humble self, would be the squad to watch out for. Allow me to give you the full story: Last week, I had the pleasure to accompany the week's hare, Fancy Pants, to set his annual run at Charlie Market. Equipped with fancy paper, staplers and appropriated ammunition, I followed the experienced hashers, clipping our way through the jungle. Setting a run seemed easier than thought until I was proven wrong. Somehow, not blaming anyone, we ended up in the cemetery, half buried in the overgrown grass and not sure how the hell to get out of there. While Fancy Pants was trying to clear the path with a wooden, snake-like stick à la Moses, No Choice was expressing her desire to find gold on the tombs and while Justbeer was concerned about the safety of everyone, I personally was occupied apologizing to the dead, telling them to haunt down Fancy Pants for leading us to this sacred place in the first place. I guess I just blamed someone. Anyway, we did finally find our way out, without falling into the next pit, came across some beautiful cows, before walking next to the road, back to the market. All in all, setting a run was quite an unforgettable adventure and unforgettable experience.

I'm at the airport right now, on my way back to Austria. I would like to thank you all one last time for the last weeks and hope to be back soon.

Take care, cheers,

HashA

Write up from Kendra, Flying Fish:

Lost Hashers: Kampung Edition. Recap of Fancy Pants' Run

Last Thursday it was time for me to make it to another hash run so I dashed home from work, changed into running clothes, doused myself with mosquito repellent and headed out the door.

Fancy Pants was hosting the run, and though I had no idea who Fancy Pants was (I definitely found out later), I was sure he set a good route. Also, the run was at Charlie's Market/Mt Erskine Wet Market, a spot which I love, not only because I will take any excuse to stop by the endlessly interesting Mt Erskine market, but because it starts up a cool cement staircase, and the likelihood is high we will go through a Chinese cemetery. And, the trails around Mt Olivia are just rad.

After arriving at Charlie's Market late, off I went, somewhere in the middle of the pack. However, my propensity to run the runnable parts propelled me toward the front. The first part of the trail was quite pleasant and the climb was manageable. This was the first time I had experienced 'checks' but luckily I found my way easy enough. (Checks are papers stapled around a tree or something in a circle - and this indicates there are no papers immediately nearby and you have to get back on the paper trail by guessing where to go).

However on the 'on down' I managed to get off the trail, following old paper and going down so far it made no sense to backtrack. Luckily I had a few poor souls with me who knew the jungle quite well, so we forged on. We knew we had to take a left eventually and so we followed a palm frond-lined trail a bit further down and then plunged left into the dense jungle. I was frightened that we would end up lost and in the dark, but soon enough we popped out into a beautiful Chinese cemetery (where my foot caught a root and I took a tumble; so far I'm 2 for 2 for hash runs where I fall down to the ground) and all was well again. After the cemetery we worked our way through a veritable maze of a kampung (local village), which was so awesome! We got to see a slice of kampung life, and went past a small soy sauce factory. After the kampung we went through (another) cemetery where, sorry to say, I did step on a few graves. The place was so overgrown it was hard to avoid but I did say a quick apology (Anjalai assured me they didn't care). As darkness was approaching we ended up running on the road before turning left back to Charlie's Market where we realized a storm was brewing. Thus, we took cover under a tin roof which meant the rain was quite deafening when the storm got underway. No worries as we enjoyed some amazing food (the curry puff was the best I'd ever had!) and subsidized beer. Another night, another hash, and I'm sure we all went home counting the days until we could be 'on paper' again.

Circle

1. We had 5 guests this week, Graham, Volker, Fancy Panties, Thin Skin and Moira, (not in the picture). We welcomed them and our Choirmaster Akz Hole, started a song for them. Sorry if I wrote your name wrong, did not take notes.
2. The On Sec put Iceman on ice, since he kept on talking with Akz Hole. The song was that Iceman should have been tied to a loudspeaker!
3. The talking should have been a lesson for the next 3 persons on ice, but they kept on chitchatting as well. I couldn't find anything wrong with their ears.

4. A CFTF by the GM saw HashA on ice. The charge was saying good bye to her, see you again in Penang. And thanked her for her camaraderie in the short time she joined the Harriets.

5. The GM then put Kendra on ice, she rarely stays for the circle, so now was the change to baptise her. The name that was chosen was Flying Fish. Iceman did the baptising.

6. Hare on ice. Fancy Pants was thanked for a good run, good food and the subsidized beer. The members then asked if Fancy Pants wanted to do his striptease and yes he did! Great fun, thanks Fancy Pants. Always a pleasure to have you back in Penang. Circle closed.

Dear GM & On Sec,

In the true spirit of Hash and warm friendship, it is my pleasure to invite you and your members to our Celebration Run to commemorate our Club's 17 years of Hashing together with the Joint Run for Kedah/Perlis Chapters.

We last celebrated in 2013 in Danok, Thailand and it's opportune to once again have the privilege to host Hashers and Harriettes no matter where you're from. (Yes, it's a mixed run). This time we celebrate on our homeground in Sg. Petani, Kedah.

We also humbly solicit your support by way of donations/sponsorships and advertisement.

So let's come together once more for joyous, fun and friendship. My members are looking forward to celebrate with you. ON ! ON !

Yours in Hash
